Down-regulation of ATP-binding cassette transporter A1 promotes doxorubicin resistance in hepatocellular carcinoma by activating Notch signaling. Tumor progression of hepatocellular carcinoma (HCC) is associated with dysregulation of several pathways, including Notch signaling. In this study, we investigated the role of Notch signaling in doxorubicin (DOX) resistance in HCC and the mechanism underlying this function. We observed that there was a significant correlation between Notch1 expression and DOX resistance in HCC tissues. Functional experiments showed that the reduction of ATP-binding cassette transporter A1 (ABCA1) expression induced the resistance of HCC cells to DOX. The ABCA1 reduction also promoted cell proliferation and the expressions of Twist, MMP2, MMP9 and Smad7. In addition, reduction of ABCA1 expression could suppress the activation of Notch1 signaling and the expressions of its downstream genes in DOX-resistant HCC cells. Finally, an in vivo study further confirmed that inhibition of Not
