Oxygen transport to tissues is limited by diffusion or oxygen consumption; or by a combination of the two. The lack of adequate oxygen supply to tissues is a common problem in clinical settings. Hyperbaric oxygen therapy is a therapeutic treatment which can increase the partial pressure of oxygen in the blood. Hyperbaric oxygen therapy is typically provided in a pressurized chamber that is sealed from the outside environment. Other than the patient, there is typically a single individual present inside the chamber during the entire course of the hyperbaric oxygen therapy treatment. Therefore, a patient in need of hyperbaric oxygen therapy typically must be closely monitored by a medical professional in order to obtain the highest level of care possible. It would be desirable to provide a method and apparatus for performing hyperbaric oxygen therapy in an environment that may be attended by multiple health care professionals for the maximum level of care.  Eric Goins, 24, was sentenced to two years in prison for second-degree assault on his mother in March in Union Township, Erie County. (Photo by Erie County Courthouse) ERIE COUNTY, N.Y. -- A Union Township man was sentenced to two years in state prison after pleading guilty to endangering the welfare of a child when he allegedly punched his 2-year-old in the face in March. The Erie County Courthouse said that on March 4, Goins, 24, struck the toddler at his mother's residence. The mother, who did not want to be identified, said that her son is in the fifth grade at a local school and participates in a mentoring program. "He says, 'Can't you just watch me instead of watching TV?'" she told police after the incident. According to the report, Goins told police, "My girlfriend told me to get up and go to the kids room." When he went to the room, the boy was playing video games, the mother told police. "My boy was laying on the bed and he heard a loud noise and went to the kids room, he got a real bop in the face," she said. The boy was taken to the emergency room where a cheek fracture was found. Goins was arrested on charges of second-degree assault and endangering the welfare of a child and on April 7, Goins was arraigned on those charges. He pleaded guilty to both charges in Erie County Court 6d1f23a050
